Signor Ferrero, the Italian Historian, on Anti-Plutocratic Movement in America.

Paris, June 28.—Signor Guglielmo Ferrero, the Italian historian, who visited the United States last year, continues the publication in the Figaro today, of his comments on the anti-plutocratic movement in America. He calls attention again to the lack of organized resistance on the part of the rich, which he explains by a general recognition on their part that the movement has been provoked by real abuses which must be corrected. Many people sympathize with this movement openly, and some sons of rich men have thrown themselves into the fight. This fact, the writer considers to be another proof of the endurance of idealism in America, where the basis of everything is the theoretical rule of the majority.

The infiltration of anti-plutocratic ideas among the masses is recognized, and the republican party, although allied to the interests of the rich, has realized that it could not adopt too hostile an attitude without provoking revolt.

Signor Ferrero is of the opinion that the picture painted by Maxim Gorky and others of the vicious rich American oligarchy, cringing before the masses is erroneous. Of the belief held in some quarters in Europe that the masses in America are organizing a revolution to despoil the wealthy, Signor Ferrero, in promising the final installment of his articles, explains the grounds for his conviction that the feeble defence which the rich men of America are making against this anti-plutocratic movement will not result in a social catastrophe.

His Photographic Plates Spoiled.

A new York photographer recently learned, to his sorrow, that the gas mantle emits a ray. He had stored away a large number of plates in a dark place and inadvertently left a gas mantle near the plates. They remained in the place for a month, and when the photographer took his plates out he found all of them fogged. The mantle contained thorium, a radioactive substance that penetrates a cardboard plate box as easily as it goes through glass. The man didn't know this, but now he knows better than to leave gas mantles near his plates.

Luxuries.

Luxuries are those possessions which are enjoyed chiefly and almost solely because other people do not have them. All other possessions are necessities. If every one were a Standard Oil magnate, it would be an insufferable bore, and it is getting to be almost that way. Luxuries do not console comfort. On the contrary, they connote litter, indigestion, gout and lassitude. Comfort comes only from necessities.—Lofort.

Wisdom in Old Adages.

"Strike when the iron is hot" and keep it hot by striking. "Take time while time is, for time will away." The English say: "The Spanish proverb has it: 'When the fool has made up his mind the market has gone by.' The old Latin said: 'Opportunity has had its turn, behind she is bald; if you seize her by the forelock, you may hold her; but if she suffers to escape, not Jupiter himself can catch her again.'"

Interesting Analysis of Snow.

The London Lancet once made an analysis of London snow on a weekday and on a Sunday. The Sunday snow showed roughly a fifth of the amount of impurities present in the weekday snow. But the most significant difference was that while the weekday snow contained as much as 3.26 grains of sulphuric acid in ten pounds the Sunday snow contained practically none.

Where Nell Gwynne Lived.

Brent house, standing on the banks of the River Brent at Brentford, which was once the residence of Nell Gwynne, is about to make way for two modern villas. While residing there Nell Gwynne often entertained Charles II., and it is said that he once rode his horse up the great oak staircase.—London Daily News.

Town Built of Meerschaum.

The town of Vallecas, in Spain, is almost entirely built of meerschaum. Vallecas has on its outskirts great quarries of a meerschaum too coarse for pipe-making, and a meerschaum built town is the result—an ivory-white town that shines in the Spanish sun.

The Religious Life.

A religious life is not a thing which spends itself like a bright bubble on the river's surface. It is rather like the river itself, which widens continually and is never so broad or deep as where it rolls into the ocean of Eternity.—Beecher.

Satanic.

"Satan is represented as a rumin' after folks will a pitchfork," said Uncle Eben, "when de truth is dat so many folks is pullin' at his coat tails dat he ain't got time to chase nobody."—Washington Star.

Salt Water Baths in London.

A flourishing business in England now is sending sea water up to London for the use of those who wish a dip in the ocean without the trouble of traveling down to the seashore for it.

As the Twig Is Bent.

There is some hope for the boy who has to be driven into the bathtub, but there is mighty little hope for the boy who has to be driven away from the mirror.—Athenian Globe.

A Dude Wrote This.

A woman is said to have invented a machine for darning socks, but nobody has yet devised means for making darned socks comfortable.—Providence Tribune.

Almost Perfect Timekeeper.

The clock of the tower of Columbia university, New York, is said to be one of the most accurate in the world, varying but six seconds a year.

Done For.

A New York woman has used a whip instead of the divorce courts. She has ruined her matrimonial future.—Washington Post.

Millions of Pine Daily.

The largest pin factory in the world is at Birmingham, England. It turns out 37,000,000 pins every day.

WHEN WISDOM IS FORGOTTEN

Extraordinary How Business Men Can Be Induced to Dabble in Silly Speculation.

In all vision there is a blind spot; every savant is a fool upon some topic. This is exemplified by the readiness with which the most astute business and professional men will dabble in speculation—such as mining and investments similar.

What man of ordinary common sense would think of buying a house which he had never seen and his agent had never seen; or a horse, or a gun, or almost anything into which he is putting money, without privilege of examination and expectation of using that privilege? And yet the majority of men will invest, "sight unseen," as the boys say, in a mine, in an oil well, in a rubber plantation, merely upon the word of a machine-made prospectus.

Somehow ninety-nine out of a hundred men who thus invest, as a side issue, seem to anticipate that chance will overlook their utter disregard of business principles and will work a miracle in their favor. They go upon the theory "A fool for luck." This is why speculation of this nature is fallen into evil ways, and why a gold mine so often proves a gold brick.

The public has itself to blame. Mines, oil wells, rubber plantations can be made sources of profit, and are made sources of profit; but they should not be played as one plays a slot machine.—Edwin L. Sabin, in Lippincott's.

Use of Scotch Water Power.

The growing industry of extracting aluminum has stimulated the search for water-power in the British Isles, because the extraction of aluminum is so expensive that only low-cost power can be economically employed. In this respect Scotland, with its mountains, is coming to the front. The water power at the falls of Foyers, in Scotland, has hitherto been the largest in Great Britain; but now a still larger plant, at Kinlochleven, utilizing the rainfall over a tract of 55 square miles, is about to be put into operation for the production of aluminum. Its nine hydraulic turbines, each of 3,200 brake horsepower, are the largest water wheels in the British Isles.

To Mark a Key.

When there are two or more keys on the key ring of approximate size and appearance, draw a file over the stem of the one most in use. This makes a nick which easily distinguishes it from the others. The little dent is better than a string or other mark, the key being easily recognized by it (in slipping it through one's fingers) in the dark.

Pieces Contained in Violin.

A violin contains 65 pieces, made up in the following way: Back, two pieces; belly, two; coils and blocks, six; sides, five; side linings, 12; bar one; purflings, 24; neck, one; fingerboard, one; nut, one; bridge, one; tailboard, one; button for tailboard, one; string for tailboard, one; guard for string, one; sound post, one; strings, four; pegs, four.

Chances of the Sailor Man.

The sea as a calling is certainly not what it once was by a long way. The class of men who did well 40 years ago would make a poor show now. It was common enough in days gone by for owners to look for a suitable man, and then build a ship for him, but it's the other way now.—British Nautical Magazine.

Feminine Intuition.

A young girl has nearly always more sense of duty and more mental balance than has a boy of her own age. Her training and the disposition of her sex both combine to steadiness and a ripe view of marriage obligations in the vast majority of cases.—Hearth and Home.

Servia No Hunting Ground for Cupid.

Servia retains many memories of Turkish rule. The women are kept in the background. The men marry for the qualities of the housewife rather than for romantic love. It is often that young men marry women much older than themselves.

The Young Idea.

"Ma," said a newspaper man's son, "I know why editors call themselves 'we.' 'Why?' 'So's the man that doesn't like the article will think there are too many people for him to tackle.'—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Real Aim of Religion.

Religion has loftier aims than the education of a good man. It presupposes that he is good already, and the principal aim is to uplift this good man to the highest stage of understanding.—Lensing.

Make a Note of This.

There may be no psychological significance contained in the fact, but we may lay down the dictum, nevertheless, that few women who are good bridge players trim their own hair.

Trees Have Many Qualities.

While the seeds of the dorewa, an East African leguminous tree, are extensively used for food, the pods and leaves form an excellent cement when mixed with crushed stone.

All One to Nature.

A waistcoat of broadcloth or of fustian is alike to an aching heart, and we laugh no merrier on velvet cushions than we did on wooden chairs.—J. K. Jerome.
